Faith and Creation Care

A Rocha has been inspired by God's love and his creation from the very beginning. The following locations intentionally network with local churches and Christians to discuss what God says about his creation and work together to make a positive impact for his glory.

Biodiversity Conservation

A Rocha hires and collaborates with local scientists and environmentalists around the world that study nature's patterns and what actions are required to preserve the world we live in. Through scientific research and local projects, the following locations are consistently conserving and celebrating the biodiversity that exists in their countries.

Community Engagement and Education

A Rocha has always had an emphasis on the importance of community. We are major proponents of empowering locals to be the experts and representatives of their homeland. The following locations are committed to environmental education within their local communities and providing ways they can make a difference in the places they live.
